

HEALTH & CO PARTNERS WITH PROFESSOR KERRY N PHELPS

6 February 2017

Health & Co today announced a foundation partnership with Professor Kerry N Phelps AM which will see Professor Phelps working with Health & Co to develop its brand and business while Professor Phelps' two clinics, Cooper Street Clinic and Sydney Integrative Medicine, become the first two practices in the Health & Co network.

Maxine Jaquet, Chief Executive of Health & Co, said: "We're delighted to announce this prestigious association with Professor Kerry N Phelps today. By becoming an ambassador for the business and chairing the Health & Co Advisory Board, Professor Phelps will assist us in building Health & Co.

"At Health & Co, we have a vision of developing a leading network of health professionals and practices with a common goal of delivering patient-centric care. GPs who partner with Health & Co will benefit from a contemporary business services centre and a seamless, patient-centric technology platform, in order to improve service levels to patients, enhance practice operations and further grow their businesses," Ms Jaquet concluded.

Professor Phelps said: "I am excited to be partnering with Health & Co. The network has been founded to support GPs who want to continue to operate their bespoke private billing clinic with a personalised approach to the care of their communities, while benefiting from the scale and competitive advantages of being part of a broader group.

"Health & Co is offering a more diverse and sophisticated model than the Australian market has previously seen. The model allows GPs to access a range of services depending on their individual requirements and the maturity of their individual practices while becoming a part of the Health & Co network," Professor Phelps concluded.

Health practitioners looking to explore opportunities to partner with Health & Co can visit www.healthandco.com.au for more information.

ENDS

Health & Co Pty Ltd is subsidiary of Primary Health Care, one of Australia's leading ASX listed healthcare companies. Health & Co is a network of health professionals united by the common goal of delivering patient-centred care. Through its network, Health & Co aims to partner with general practice owners to further build their businesses via smart services and scale advantages.